

MYP Breakout Session Minutes - 11/17/2007

Feedback from morning speakers (Loung Ung and Kari Grady Grossmann -

- Speakers were great. The time went quickly.
- World Cafés were incredibly helpful.
- Kari gave practical application of Loung's message.
- Important to highlight the value of bringing other teachers to IBARMS; it gives them a more global perspectives.
- Bringing our teachers was excellent; helps them to feel more connected. Would like to do it again.
- Would love to see IBARMS commit to doing more that includes teachers; they need to hear other voices (instead of just coordinators). All they have is training, the experience within their buildings, the roundtables & summit. They need to be exposed to this level of expertise, other programs, etc.
- This reenergizes their teaching. This was a positive experience that teachers don't get very often.

Student Summit

- Handout given; this will be emailed to all MYP schools as soon as its finalized
- Friday, Jan. 11
- Two students /grade level + 2 adults; we have capacity for 200
- Adams 12 Admin. Building
- $5 per person charge to cover the cost of the lunch
- Health and Social Education focus
- Conference format; presenters - DU grad students from the School of International Relations
- Agency Fair - opportunities for students to connect with agencies and choose one to support as a program
- UN Millennium Goals
- We need help with finding agencies for the fair; please contact Debbie Getzel with ideas at dgetzel@lps.k12.co.us
- We're looking for agencies that represent both international and local issues
- Please start thinking of texts that can be used to connect service to learning (fiction or non-fiction); we would like to have a list available for teachers/students to take home at the end of the summit
- World Affairs Challenge (WAC) - DU would love to have more IBARMS schools participate in this; there is an on-line video version of WAC (taking place this year Dec.3); it would be great if IBARMS schools could plan to get involved next year
